Note. In addition to completing requirements for PhD in clinical psychology, several students have extended their time in the graduate program in order to complete a dual clinical-developmental PhD, statistics minor, Teaching of Psychology Practicum, or multi-year NRSA research fellowships. Several students have also taken leaves of absence in order to pursue additional degree programs or devote time to personal, family, or medical issues. Occasionally, students enter with a master's degree (e.g., in general psychology, psychopathology) from another institution; although these students may have a few requirements waived, they are not granted advanced standing. Thus, MA/MS students are not presented separately here.

II. Program Costs

University/institution fees or costs	$2,305.10
Additional estimated fees or costs to students (e.g. books, travel, etc.)	$600

Notes. Tuition costs listed at $0 because department covers these costs for students with assistantships (all students in good standing in Years 1-5 are awarded assistantships and tuition coverage. University fees are estimated for domestic students based on 14 credit hour enrollment; costs vary for international students and with credit hours. Program costs are presented in detail below.

Assistantships are guaranteed for all department students in good standing in Years 1-5, and are typically available for students in good standing beyond Year 5. During the internship year, students who have not yet defended their dissertation are required to enroll in 1-2 credit hours per semester and summer; this is not waived because it is not part of a graduate assistantship but is charged at the in-state rate. Students who have defended their dissertation are not required to enroll.

*Student insurance plans are optional for domestic students and mandatory for international students. Insurance plan costs are subsidized for all students with assistantships or fellowships (assistantships are guaranteed for all students in good standing in Years 1-5, and are typically available for students in good standing beyond Year 5). Deductibles listed are for services provided by Student Health Center or services provided elsewhere with a Student Health Center referral. For coverage details, see <http://gradschool.missouri.edu/health/>.

**Mandatory fees are listed for academic year (i.e., excluding summer) except for insurance fees which are calculated for 12-month coverage.
